

Thomson Reuters Regulatory Intelligence API

Our intelligence working for you

Introducing Thomson Reuters Regulatory Intelligence API

Thomson Reuters® Regulatory Intelligence API ensures your organization can easily and securely integrate the most comprehensive and authoritative source of regulatory intelligence into your business's workflow process.

Receive industry-leading intelligent information from the same regulatory database that drives our Regulatory Intelligence desktop solution to enhance your Governance, Risk, and Compliance strategy. Regulatory Intelligence API enables your firm to free up valuable time and resources and improves how your team manages compliance risk.

Seamless integration

Regulatory Intelligence API provides seamless access to regulatory information, enabling your organization to integrate and act upon all relevant risk data – regulatory change and events, risk and control assessments, and policy document review. The API allows you to search, set up customizable feeds and alerts, and analyze content, with the convenience of doing so within your workflow solution and all in the same place.

The API lets you access the full range of our Regulatory Intelligence desktop platform features within your workflow solution and without the need to navigate to the platform to review content.

Timeliness

The API does not require an XML feed solution to enable the delivery of content, so there is no longer a need to wait for a feed delivery to be ingested into your workflow solution, reducing the end-to-end time from publication of content in Regulatory Intelligence through to completion of the review process on your side.

Expert, trusted knowledge

The expertise and knowledge provided by our regulatory intelligence experts and editorial teams is second to none. Regulatory intelligence experts include experienced former regulators and compliance officers who understand the spirit as well as the detail of the rules. Our dedicated in-house editorial and regulatory intelligence team is further enhanced by worldwide Reuters® news coverage and supported by a global network of third-party experts. This means that users have exclusive access to highly trusted and reliable information to make well-informed decisions.

Access a comprehensive and authoritative repository of global regulatory information

Regulatory Intelligence API ensures your organization can easily and securely integrate the most comprehensive and authoritative source of content into your business workflow process. You will have access to global coverage of regulatory developments from over 1,200 supervisory bodies and more than 2,500 collections of regulatory and legislative materials via a single interface. This enables your organization to free up valuable time and resources and further improves how your team manages compliance risk. This also allows for a smarter and easier workflow to be created as it follows the same standard taxonomy as Regulatory Intelligence. This seamless process ensures you receive the right information to assess any risk that could impact your business.
