ABOUT THE LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

This special award gives the judges the opportunity to recognise a person who has devoted a significant portion of their working life to advancing the cause of health and safety in New Zealand, and whose specific achievements have clearly benefited many people, regionally or nationally.

To nominate someone for this award, please submit a citation of no more than 500 words explaining how the nominee fits the above criteria. Please do not advise the nominee that he or she has been nominated. Note that it is in the nature of lifetime achievement awards that they are given to people who are in the latter stages of their career. The judges reserve the right to hold nominations over for consideration in future years.
